THE ECONOMICS OF INFORMALITY CONFERENCE 2022 CALL FOR PAPERS

The School of Economics at Universidad del Rosario and Alianza EFI (Formal and Inclusive Economy) invite you to participate in the call for papers for the third version of The Economics of Informality Conference 2022. This event will take place on October 20th and October 21st in Bogotá, Colombia.

This Conference aims to bring together scholars, experts, young researchers, practitioners, and policy makers to present their work, exchange knowledge, share their research, and debate topics around the informal economy.

We invite you to submit your paper studying informality across a wide range of areas, including Labor economics, Industrial organization, Urban economics, Agricultural economics, Finance, regulation, Public economics, Political economy, Development economics, and Migration, Fiscal and Monetary Policy among others. We also encourage the submission of papers that address how the current situation (COVID-19) has affected the informal economy. Both empirical and theoretical papers are welcome.

Submission deadline

The new submission deadline is June 5th, 2022. Each paper will have a discussant.

- Authors will send their papers in English through the platform Dryfta. You will find additional instructions on how to submit your paper on the website at the end of this document
- The official language of the Conference is English.
- An author may present several papers as long as they fit the event's subjects.
- No registration fee will be applied to participate in this event.

Notification of acceptance: July 5th, 2022.

in order to upload your paper, we invite you to review the instructions at the end of this document and check out the following link
